Physician/Therapist Cont'd: (check all that are appropriate)

- The healthcare professional is familiar with Health At Every Size (HAES) principles and incorporates them into their practice
- The same diagnostic tests are performed on patients of large body size as any other patient
- If diagnostic tests are required, the large patient is referred to offices where diagnostic equipment has an appropriate weight maximum – if unsure, the provider's staff follows up to find diagnostic equipment that will handle the patient's weight
- Any counseling about exercise is done so without linking it to weight or weight reduction
- The healthcare professional is open to questions the patient may have about alternative therapies or health solutions

Comments about this Healthcare Provider:

Dr Brandner did advise that weight loss would be beneficial to my osteoarthritic knee but did not push the issue. Instead he discussed potential therapies to help with my knee pain. Be prepared to wait to be seen, however.

Comments about the Facility or Equipment:

There is a variety of seating options in the lobby from armed chairs that are 20" wide, to tall chairs for those that can't bend, to at least one 27" bench. Unfortunately, the chairs in the exam rooms are the standard 17" armed chairs. There may be alternatives should it be needed.
